

How to make $8

Contributed by Wang Zen
Thursday, 26 July 2007

I just wanted to let you know about this amazing survey and offer program, Cashcrate!
The minimum payout is $10, which is easy to reach.

Cashcrate will pay you 8 dollars to sign up with Ebay. The only thing is that for that offer you need a credit/debit card. You can get a prepaid card at RiteAid or Walgreen's.

After you sign up, you just need to make a bid. The trick though, is to make a bid on a really expensive item that is starting out at a low price. For example, you could make a bid on an iPhone. Usually, the iPhone goes for like $600+, however, find one with a starting bid of like $10, so make the bid and you will quickly be outbid by someone else. That's it! 8 dollars for doing hardly anything.

Also, there are a lot of surveys that pay you .50 for participating, which means basically filling out a out the first two pages of the survey (you don't need to fully complete those!). With the form filling software, Roboform, I can do that in less than 10 seconds. Roboform is completely free, and it can fill in your address, birthday, etc. at www.roboform.com. The only thing about filling in these forms is that you may want to make a new email address so that your actual email address doesn't get spam! So, Click here and try it: Cashcrate.

Wangzen